MARKET OPENS SUCCESSFULLY

County Market Men who Bring Vegetables to Gettysburg Sell out before Seven o'clock. Many Present when Market Opened.

That Gettysburg will support a curb market was clearly demonstrated this morning when practically all of the country people who were present sold out their supply of vegetables before seven o'clock. One or two, who were a little late in arriving, missed the early rush of buyers and had to wait a little longer to sell out but the patronage was brisk during market hours.

Those who have been advocating the market were delighted when a score of people appeared on the Square shortly after five o'clock to attend the opening.

Others kept coming right along. Mr. R. W. Taylor, who had a half dozen bunches of asparagus left at seven o'clock out of a large wagon load of produce said to a Times representative:

"Here I am sold out and it's only seven o'clock. It would have taken me until noon to sell that, going from house to house, and think how much easier it is to stand here and sell than to have to drive all over town. It is fine."

Mrs. Bela Bucher brought in a quantity of cheese, buttermilk and country produce and the way the people bought the things was a sight. A dozen people would wait their turn at seven o'clock she had sold out.

The wagon of W. W. Boyer and Brother, butchers, was another well patronized place. Mr. Boyer said,

"When I got here there were fifteen people waiting for me. I understand some left before I came."

Mr. Hoffman disposed of ten bushels of potatoes in twenty minutes.

All the other market people reported the same success and it was clearly shown that all that is necessary is for the people to bring in the things and Gettysburgians will buy. The opening day of the curb market saw only spring vegetables ready for sale and some of the strawberry and other fruit growers, who have purchased stalls, were not at the market.

The patronage from town came from all sections, those who had opposed the scheme being among the first on hand.

FOR THREE DAYS STUDENTS FAST

Quartet of Gettysburg College Students Enter into Compact to Let Nothing Pass their Lips but Water. Feel Well.

This evening four students from college will complete a three days' fast, having eaten nothing since Saturday evening. The abstainers are Paul Brown, of Smithsburg, W. L. Reithmiller, of Indiana, P. S. Miller, of Hanover, and J. D. Diehl, of York.

The idea first entered the minds of the young men when they read in a magazine on physical culture that it was a good thing to give one's digestive organs a rest once in a while just as it was a good thing to give college students a vacation at times.

Accordingly the quartet got together and promised solemnly and sincerely that they would eat nothing and drink nothing except water for three days, and right well did they keep that promise.

The first day they felt a trifle hungry but passed by the big Sunday dinners prepared at their boarding houses. Monday morning all felt more or less the need of nourishment, but they fought on and gradually began to lose their appetite. The last day did not prove such a great feat to the existence of the fasters and they got through without much trouble.

The breaking of the fast has to be done with considerable care or sickness will follow. Just as it is not well for students to get down to too hard work right after vacation so the digestive organs must not be overtaxed. Several meals of orange juice are necessary to start internal work again and then the young men can eat the same as ever.

MISS McDANNELL'S RECITAL

Of Miss Henrietta McDannel who will give a recital in Brue Chapel Friday evening Dr. G. D. Stahley, of Seminary Ridge says: "Miss McDannel's readings are a refreshing contrast to the stock performances one is now and then compelled to listen to from so called elocutionists. Her renditions are true and vivid, whether she is depicting the pranks of a child or rendering the lofty sentiments of a Shakespearean character. She has a fine appreciation of the sentiment of a piece and a just care in its interpretation. No one will be disappointed in depending on Miss McDannel for an hour's enjoyable entertainment." GOLDEN EAGLES IN CONVENTION

Public Meeting Held At Opening Session of Pennsylvania Knights of the Golden Eagle in Walter's Theatre. Parade.

Several hundred delegates representing a membership of fifty thousand Knights of the Golden Eagle gathered in Walter's Theatre this morning in their annual convention. The delegates were escorted to the theatre headed by the Citizens' Band of Gettysburg and Ivanhoe Command.

of Philadelphia. The band also played during the public opening ceremonies at the theatre.

The address of welcome was made by District Attorney S. S. Neely who called attention to the large membership of the order, its principles, its life of thirty five years and the fact that no organization could live that long and be so successful without adhering to its high ideals. Mr. Neely also welcomed the Knights and Ladies to Gettysburg extending to them the freedom and courtesy of the town.

After prayer by the Grand High Priest Elect, the response to the address of welcome was made by Grand Chief Charles Denby who spoke of the pleasure he felt in the work of the order and his labors in its behalf. He also called the attention of the delegates to the assistance given by the other officers and various members.

A large photograph of the founder of the Knights of the Golden Eagle was presented to Mr. Denby to be turned over to the Grand Castle of Pennsylvania in October and later to become the possession of the supreme body. Mr. Denby also made the response to this presentation. Several other short addresses were made at the public opening session.

Walter's Theatre presented a pretty scene at the morning session. The interior as well as the exterior of the building was prettily decorated with a profusion of flags and bunting and the handsome uniforms of the Ivanhoe Commandery who occupied the stage with the grand officers of both the Knights and Ladies of the Golden Eagle added much to the appearance of the session.

This afternoon almost a thousand members of commanderies and castles throughout the state paraded in uniform with a number of bands and made an interesting pageant.

The parade was in charge of Chief Marshall Harry Reinicke and was in three divisions. The first division was made up of the commanderies the second of the Grand Castle officers, the representatives and the various castles, and the third division of the Ladies of the Golden Eagle in carriages. A full account of the parade and awards of prizes will appear in tomorrow's Times.

Attention is called to pictures of the officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary on page four.

HANDS OFF IN SUGAR FRAUDS

Taft Tells Why Probe Should Stay in Executive Hands.

SPECIAL MESSAGE TO HOUSE

Declares Congressional Investigation Is Not Wanted Now, as It Would Embarrass Prosecution.

Washington, May 10.—President Taft sent a special message to the house of representatives to tell why he considers a congressional investigation of the sugar frauds in the customs service inexpedient.

It is because "a congressional investigation at this time would embarrass the executive department in the continuance and completion of the investigation of the appraisers and other officers of the customs service."

The president's reply was to a resolution passed in the house on April 14 calling upon him to state his reasons for not wishing a congressional investigation, as he had intimated in his message at the opening of the session.

In making his answer the president did not lose an opportunity to tell the house when a congressional investigation was necessary.

"The necessity for congressional investigation," the president wrote, "arises first, when an executive investigation is either not in good faith or is lacking in vigor, or when additional legislation is needed to prevent a recurrence of the frauds."

"The primary duty, with respect to frauds in the executive service, falls upon the executive to direct the discovery of fraud and crime, to direct judicial investigation to recover what is due to the government and of bringing to justice the guilty persons."

"The report of the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general show beyond question the utmost vigor and effectiveness in the investigation and prosecution up to this time and the achieving of exceptional results in the recovery of moneys which the government had been defrauded, the indictment of participants in the frauds and in the reformation of the customs service with a view to the prevention of such frauds in the future."

With his message the president sent a joint report of the secretary of the treasury and the attorney general, showing the investigation up to date.

The danger of granting immunity to any offenders through a congressional investigation, the president pointed out, is still very grave. He referred to the case of Heike, secretary of the American Sugar Refining company, who was summoned before the grand jury investigating the sugar company's alleged connection with a combination violating the Sherman anti-trust act, and pleaded immunity.

While the supreme court refused to pass on the question, claiming it did not properly come before it, the president indicates that the point is left to be raised in the event of a conviction of Heike.

If congress were to investigate the weighers' and appraisers' offices it would have to go about getting just such expert evidence as is now being collected, the president said, which will be sent to congress as soon as the present investigation is at an end.

KING'S DEATH KILLS WOMAN

Reading Accounts of Edward VII's Death Brought on Heart Failure.

Minneapolis, Minn., May 10.—Mrs. Sarah J. P. Mobley, aged seventy, is dead, and the coroner says her death is due to heart failure brought on by reading of the death of King Edward.

Mrs. Mobley lived alone. She was lying on the floor fully dressed for the street.

In her hand was an extra edition of a newspaper containing accounts of the king's death.

Mrs. Mobley was an admirer of King Edward, and on the walls of nearly every room in her house were his portraits, picturing him from boyhood to manhood.

Killed by Falling Chain.

Wilmington, Del., May 10.—While passing under the new Baltimore & Ohio railroad bridge at Brandywine park on his way to work at the August paper mills, Leslie J. Sill, aged twenty-three years, had his skull fractured when a heavy chain fell upon him. He died in the Homeopathic hospital a few minutes afterward.

Loot Town Without Police.

Aberdeen, Md., May 10.—Taking advantage of the fact that no policemen were guarding the town, a gang of thieves entered this place and broke into six homes. All they got in cash was the sum of $5. They got plenty of food and in some homes stole the bottle of whisky that is kept for medicinal purposes.

Cold Kills Millionaire.

Milwaukee, May 10.—George Brumder, millionaire publisher of German newspapers in Milwaukee, died suddenly from a cold.

The Weather.

Forecast for this section: Fair today and tomorrow; light west to north-west winds.

With the coming of the warm weather a more careful and frequent inspection of the poultry and poultry quarters should be made to head off the lice and mite pests should they appear. Whitewashing the house, nests and outside coops used for the hens and their chicks, a fumigation of the poultry house with flour of sulphur scattered over a pan of live coals and the spraying of the roosts, nest boxes and, if necessary, the interior of the house with kerosene or a solution containing creosote or petroleum are three ways in which these poultry enemies may be kept in check.

CIRCUS HALTS LAWMAKING

Calliope Lures Senators From Committee Meetings.

Washington, May 10.—Through the windows and doors of the capitol building strains of music drifted that set the feet of senators and congressmen to beating time, that made work lag and that finally caused a dozen important committee meetings to adjourn while the committeemen gathered on the capitol steps to watch the circus parade pass by.

Groups of statesmen laid by all thoughts of the railroad bill, forgot years and cares and, as eagerly as boys, watched the parade as it swung down Pennsylvania avenue.

Blaring stridently, bands playing and riders and animals glistening in all the glory of circus tinsel. The venerable Senator Frye stood close to the line of march and exchanged laughing comments with a score of his colleagues.

Champ Clark, minority leader in the house, seemed to be sunk in deep reflections as he stood watching the passing show. A colleague asked him to explain his pensiveness.

"Do you see the G. O. P. elephants?" he asked. "No one cheers; no one looks at them. But look at the Democratic donkeys, ridden by the clowns. Every one laughs and claps."

"It may be accident," he said, "but it looks significant to me."

BETRAYED GIRL DRINKS POISON

Ends Life After Writing Note to Sweetheart.

Waynesboro, Pa., May 10.—Clasping a gold locket containing the photograph of the young man she accused of betraying her, Mary Tolbert was found dead in bed at the home of Adam Walters, near Waynesboro, a victim of suicide by poison. She left several letters, one to a young man, in which she said:

"You have won my love and have betrayed me. This is driving me crazy. I would rather die than live a ruined life. You will have to meet your God as well as I, and I hope you will repent of what you have done before you go to meet him."

Mrs. Tolbert was thirty years old. Her body was taken to Fayetteville, the home of her parents. She was a member of the United Brethren church of this city.

Enough strychnine was found in a tumbler to kill two men, and suicidal intent was revealed not only by her note, but in one to the girl's mother and in a conversation with a companion on the car. Miss Tolbert took to go home, after seeing the young man here in company with other girls.

MRS. HYDE ON THE STAND

Makes Strong Witness For Husband in Swope Murder Case.

Kansas City, Mo., May 10.—From the lips of Mrs. B. C. Hyde, the jurors in the husband's trial heard the story of the Swope tragedy.

Unused to the experience of testifying before a crowded court room, Mrs. Hyde made a pitiable spectacle the first few minutes she was upon the stand. After sobbing for a few minutes Mrs. Hyde composed herself and was able to proceed with her testimony.

Mrs. Hyde told of Colonel Swope's custom of using a medicine containing strychnine, iron and quinine.

Mrs. Hyde's description of Colonel Swope's conversation varied greatly from that given by Miss Keller, the nurse.

"Did your Uncle Thomas say, 'I wish I had not taken that medicine'?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"No, he only said he wished he was dead."

The state's contention that Dr. Hyde on Nov. 21 infected the Swope water cooler with typhoid germs was attacked by Mrs. Hyde, when she said her husband was not at the house on that day.

On Dec. 3, following a summons, said Mrs. Hyde, she went to her mother's residence. There she found Margaret and Chrisman ill with typhoid. She called her husband to the house.

"Was Chrisman taking any medicine when your husband reached the house?" asked Mr. Walsh.

"He was taking some white pellets obtained from Jordan, a Kansas City man," replied Mrs. Hyde. "Chrisman continued to grow worse from the time of my arrival until his death."

Three Shot in Street Battle.

Cordell, Ga., May 10.—As a result of a street duel here between Bowen, Herbert and Edward Mercer, brothers, so one side, and Grady Snellgrove and William Benton on the other, Snellgrove and Benton are dying and Edward Mercer is dangerously wounded.

The duel was caused by attentions which Snellgrove has been paying a young sister of the Mercer brothers. Snellgrove had been warned to keep away from the girl. He persisted in his attentions and the fight resulted.

MAN AND WOMAN KILLED BY ROBBERS

Murdered Trying to Prevent Looting of House.

New York, May 10.—Miss Margaret Meehner, who had been housekeeper in the home of Dr. War D. Cannon, at 131 West One Hundred and Twenty-second street, for forty years, and William Beeman, a Hindu, who went to work on Saturday as a butler, were found shot to death in the house when Dr. Cannon returned from making his calls.

Both had also been severely beaten, but death evidently resulted from shooting. About $200 was missing from a dresser in Dr. Cannon's room and no trace of the money could be found. From the facts at hand the police concluded that the housekeeper and butler had been killed by persons who tried to rob the house during the hours when they were there alone.

THE PRINCE'S SPEECH.

Canning's Reason For Ignoring the Royal Audacity.

One of the best stories in connection with the history of the king's speech, delivered at the opening of each fresh session of parliament, says Every-body's, is told of George IV. when prince regent.

The prince, it is well known, took his responsibilities lightly and on one occasion is said to have bet Sheridan 100 guineas that either owing to the magnetism of his personality or the flutter which the occupants of the lords' chamber were in so little attention was really paid to the verbal character of the speech he was delivering that he could make any interpolation he liked without it being detected.

The bet was taken, and the prince regent agreed to introduce the words "Ban, ban, black sheep," in the middle of the speech.

"If anybody smiles or looks startled," he said, "I lose my bet."

This exploit actually came off, and at the close of a weighty allusion, composed by Lord Liverpool, to Wellington's difficulties in Spain the regent cleared his throat, said, "Ban, ban, black sheep," hurriedly and went on without apparently exciting any remark.

Sheridan related the royal audacity to Canning.

"It is perfectly amazing to me," Sheridan said, "that no notice was taken. Didn't you hear him distinctly say, 'Ban, ban, black sheep?'"

"I did," rejoined Canning, "but as my royal highness looked you full in the face at the time I took it as a personal allusion, and my delicacy forbade me to think more about it."

Sample Helps Frail Women

So many women are dragging out weary lives just because their digestive organs are weak. The result is poor circulation, nervousness and the verge of invalidism. It is often very unnecessary and the woman's own fault.

The first thing to do is to look to the welfare of your bowels. There the trouble usually lies. All physicians know that a large percentage of women are habitually constipated, and from this result indigestion, piles, weariness, etc. But there is no use taking "female remedies" and things of that kind until you have started your bowels to moving.

You will find that a day or two of regular once or twice a day laxative pills will disappear. Take a good, mild laxative tonic like Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin for awhile and you will find yourself rapidly getting better and then your bowels will regulate themselves and work at stated times, and then your headaches and dizziness will disappear. Don't take strait cathartic pills or salts, but just such a mild and pleasant-tasting remedy as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin.

You can obtain a bottle of your druggist for fifty cents or one dollar, and either side may be enough to permanently cure you. Thousands of women keep it regularly in the house and will no longer be without it, as it cured them and can be used with safety by every member of the family, down to the youngest child, but if you have never used it take the advice of Mrs. Earl S. Cox, 409 Twenty-fifth street, Moline, Ill., and send to Dr. Caldwell for a free trial bottle, as they did, and learn for yourself it will cure you, as it did them, there is no doubt.

Dr. Caldwell personally will be pleased to give you any medical advice you may desire for yourself or family pertaining to the stomach, liver or bowels absolutely free of charge. Explain your case in detail and he will reply to you in detail. For the free sample simply send your name and address to a postal card or otherwise. For either request the doctor's address in Dr. W. B. Caldwell, R. 521 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

Women's Beauty

Imperfect Digestion Causes Bad Complexion and Dull Eyes.

The color in your cheeks won't fade, the brightness in your eye won't vanish, if you keep your stomach in good condition. This was the advice of a prominent physician to a woman's club in Boston and it is good advice. Belching of gas, heaviness, sour taste in mouth, dizziness, biliousness and nausea occur simply because the stomach is not properly digesting the food.

The blood needs nourishment to carry vigor, vim and vitality to every part of the body and when food ferments in the stomach enough nourishment is not supplied.

MI-O-NA stomach tablets give instant relief to upset stomachs, but they do more; they put strength into the stomach and build it up so that it can easily digest a hearty meal without giving its owner hours of misery.

MI-O-NA is sold by druggists everywhere and by The People's Drug Store at 50 cents a large box. It is guaranteed to cure indigestion or any stomach distress or money back.

CAUSE OF ECZEMA EXPLAINED

After years of debate medical authorities are now agreed that Eczema and other skin diseases are not seated in the blood, but are caused by myriads of microscopic animals gnawing the flesh just below the epidermis. The patient is perfectly healthy, it is only the skin that is diseased.

Hence, scientists are now agreed that you must cure the skin through the skin. The medicine must be in liquid form in order to penetrate properly. And we can say with confidence that we have the true remedy for Eczema in our store.

The instant you wash with this soothing liquid you will find the itch relieved. We positively assure you of this. Will you try a bottle (at only 25c), on our recommendation? Ask for D. D. D. Prescription. People's Drug Store, C. Wm. Beales, Proprietor.

Rest the Farm Horses' Feet.

Every farm horse should if possible be allowed to go without his shoes at least two or three months every year. In fact, it is hardly necessary to shoe a horse on the farm unless he is to go on the hard roads or work on the hard soil where he is required to do much heavy pulling. Without shoes a horse's hoof will grow out and regain its natural shape, which is always more or less changed by continuous shoeing. Many city horses with hoofs bound and cracked and otherwise injured have been taken to a farm, their shoes pulled off and turned out to pasture and thoroughly cured within six months. In fact, the farmers around the large cities used to find in this class of animal a cheap supply of many of their horses, which were first class horses, showing that all that was needed was a rest on Mother Earth without their shoes.

Gray Hair.

The Logical Explanation.
There is a great deal of misinformation about the cause of the hair and the cause of hair getting gray prematurely. It is used to be believed that in some families gray hair was hereditary, like blue eyes or quick temper. Science, however, has proved that gray hair is simply a lack of the proper hair food, and is in every case an individual problem. Premature gray hair is easily preventable, and when it first appears all that is necessary is to apply some reliable hair food such as HAY'S HAIR HEALTH. This standard remedy is entirely harmless and is in no sense a dye, being a preparation rich in the exact kind of sustenance that the scalp needs to keep the hair from decaying. Gray hair is simply a sign of decayed hair. One of the most valuable books on the care of the hair can be had from the Philo Hay Specialties Company, Newark, N. J., U. S. A.

KING GEORGE PROCLAIMED

Ceremony of Medieval Pomp Carried Out in London.

CROWD SINGS NATIONAL HYMN

Garbed in Ancient Costumes Heralds Conduct Impressive Ceremony in St. James' Palace and at Points in London—Funeral of Edward May 20.

London, May 10.—The proclamation announcing the accession of King George V. was read at the St. James' palace.

Friday, May 20, has been definitely fixed as the date for King Edward's funeral.

Immediately after the funeral of her husband it is expected that the queen mother will retire to Sandringham palace, which King Edward some years ago made over to her as a dowry house.

With the time-honored ceremony of a brilliant and impressive character, George V. was publicly proclaimed as king of the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Ireland and the British dominions beyond the seas, defender of the faith, emperor of India.

Sharply at the stroke of 9 o'clock four heralds, arrayed in medieval uniforms of scarlet, heavily braided with gold, mounted the balcony of Ffary Court at St. James' palace, where Queen Victoria presented herself to the people upon the opening of her memorable reign, and blew a fanfare through their long silver trumpets.

From the windows of Marlborough house, immediately opposite, the Duke of Cornwall, the young heir to the throne, the younger princes and Princess Mary watched the ceremony.

Earl Marshal Appears.

The heralds having concluded their duties, the officers of arms, chief of whom is the Duke of Norfolk, the hereditary earl marshal and chief butler of England, took their places on the balcony forming the great heraldic company. None were mourning, this having been removed for the occasion. Sir Alfred Scott Scott-Gatty, Garter principal king of arms, with the Duke of Norfolk and two officers bearing the staves of office, stepped to the front of the balcony, and in a voice which could be heard across the court and in the streets adjoining, read the proclamation, while great throngs stood uncovered in a drizzling rain.

The duke and Sir Alfred then called for three cheers for the king, and the people responded with fairly deafening hurrahs, which were silenced only by the reappearance of the heralds, who sounded another fanfare.

The last note hardly died away when the band of the Cold Stream Guards, which had taken up a position in the square, struck up "God Save the King." The young princes from their point of vantage in the windows of Marlborough house stood with their hands at salute and the officers and troops stood at attention.

Crowd Sings National Anthem.

As the national anthem was concluded the first gun of the battery in St. James' park belched forth a royal salute and the people in the square and streets at the same moment took up the refrain "God Save the King." This was probably the most impressive part of the ceremony, the fervent singing of the crowds growing in volume as more and more singers joined in, while at minute intervals the gun half drowned the chorus.

The popular demonstration at an end, the earl marshal and his attendants proceeded to the Ambassador's court, whence they drove to Charing Cross and thence to the city of London to read the proclamation to the people at the designated points. The route to the city proper was lined with 7000 troops, while at the places at which the procession stopped and repeated the ceremony troops and Horse Guards were stationed. The royal carriages of the Duke of Norfolk, Sir Alfred Scott Scott-Gatty and the officers of arms, followed by General French with the headquarters staff and a troop of cavalry, drove briskly from St. James' palace to Charing Cross.

Thousands upon thousands who had waited since early morning silently watched the stately progress of the heraldic procession. At Charing Cross there was such a crush that the police and troops had great difficulty in keeping a space clear for the heralds. The royal announcers again blew a fanfare and Sir Alfred once more read the proclamation. Again the people sang the national anthem, their voices being accompanied by the music of military bands.

European Royalty at Funeral.

The republic of France probably will be represented at the funeral by former President Loubet, although there is talk that President Fallieres may come. Emperor William will be here, as also will the kings of Greece, Spain, Portugal, Denmark, Norway, Belgium and Bulgaria and the heirs to the thrones of Austria, Italy, Turkey, Sweden and Roumania.

Prince Edward, the heir apparent to the throne, will for the present be styled the Duke of Cornwall and Rothesay. Later he will be created Prince of Wales. He succeeds forthwith to the duchy of Cornwall, with a clear income of $400,000 yearly, which will accumulate until he becomes of age, giving him an independent fortune of $2,500,000.

Mexico City, May 10.—Harper B. Lee, an American bull fighter, was gored by a bull during a fight at Guadalajara, and he is not expected to live, according to a telegram received by El Imparcial.

A special received later by the Mexican Herald said that Lee, with sixteen inches of his intestines protruding from the wound made by the bull, killed the animal and then quietly walked to the stand, where he received medical aid.

The special stated that the nerve displayed by the American matador is the sole topic of conversation in Guadalajara.

WHAT SANK THE MAINE WILL SOON BE KNOWN

Army Engineers Will Raise the Wreck.

Washington, May 10.—Secretary of War Dickinson turned over to General Marshall, chief of engineers of the army, the problem of raising the old battleship Maine, lying in Havana harbor, in accordance with the bill recently put through the house and senate. For this work an appropriation of $100,000 is made available.

It will be the plan of General Marshall to raise the vessel intact, just as she is at present, that it may be determined whether or not she was blown up from an explosion from within or by a torpedo or mine from without.

The former is the Spanish theory, the latter has been the contention of Admiral Sigsbee and the naval board which conducted the inquiry following the disaster and is commonly accepted by the people of this country.

In order to raise the wreck intact the army engineers will have to build a cofferdam about the Maine and the water will then be pumped out.

Steel piles will be interwoven about the wreck and the crevices filled with cement to make the dam water tight. Derricks will then lift the wreck and she will probably be towed to the nearest drydock, where naval officials will inspect her.

The Maine lies in thirty-five feet of water, with her masts appearing above the surface.

It is thought that after the army engineers have formulated their plan that the actual work will be let to a contracting company, over which an army engineer will have supervision.

ROOSEVELT STIRS UPROVIN NORWAY

Forces ex-Premier to Deny He Indorsed Conservation Policy.

INCIDENT CREATES SENSATION

Former President Resented Being Quoted as Taking a Partisan Stand in Country's Politics.

Christiania, May 10.—Mr. Roosevelt's visit here has been followed by an incident which is making a sensation in Norway. Mr. Roosevelt has severely censured ex-Premier Gunnar Knudsen, who is now vice president of the parliament, for using his name and quoting him as a partisan in Norwegian politics.

The ex-premier has been making a campaign and has introduced a bill in parliament for the conservation of the natural resources, chiefly the water power, and the opposition party has been fighting this scheme as an infringement on personal rights.

At the recent gala dinner in the castle Mr. Knudsen had a conversation with Mr. Roosevelt on the subject. The latter, in the belief that he was speaking of general principles, expressed a warm sympathy in the work. Mr. Knudsen asked permission to make the former president's remarks public. "Tell it to any one you like," Mr. Roosevelt replied enthusiastically.

Asked to Take It Back.

There was a considerable stir when the newspapers appeared, quoting Mr. Roosevelt as a warm supporter of Knudsen's policy. Mr. Roosevelt summoned Knudsen and insisted emphatically that he issue a denial, and he himself wrote a letter to the same effect. The opposition papers are now attacking the ex-premier.

The Afternoon says:

"From the denial which Mr. Gunnar Knudsen was compelled by Mr. Roosevelt to make, it appears that, at the conversation in question, Mr. Roosevelt was thinking of his own American policy, while Mr. Knudsen was speaking of his Norwegian policy."

"We will not dwell upon the want of discretion shown by Mr. Knudsen in trying to involve a guest of the nation in our own internal political disputes and trying to turn him to political account. This want of discretion rightly aroused a great deal of indignation. It is an absolutely unprecedented phenomenon that a man holding a position like Theodore Roosevelt should, during the visit he paid us, be compelled to issue a denial of what the late premier said concerning his conversation with him."

ROOSEVELT IN BERLIN

Berlin, May 10.—Colonel Roosevelt arrived in Berlin this morning and was met at the railway station by the full staff of the American embassy. The only German official who was present was Lieutenant Colonel Von Kerner, formerly military attaché at Washington, who is an old friend of Colonel Roosevelt. It was for that reason that the kaiser designated him as special aide to Colonel Roosevelt during the latter's stay in the German capital.

Colonel Roosevelt, accompanied by Mrs. Roosevelt and Miss Ethel, will go by special train to Potsdam this afternoon and will be entertained at a private luncheon by the emperor and empress.

New York, May 10.—Although the dead body of a man found hanging from a tree in Weehawken, N. He made his appearance to the astonishment and delight of Mrs. Dillon and her eight children as they were sitting at the dinner table.

Mrs. Dillon began a search for her husband, who was missing at the time the body of the suicide was found in the woods. When she caught sight of the dead man's face in the morgue she fainted, and when she revived identified the body as that of her husband.

When Dillon, very much alive, walked in the door his wife warmly welcomed him.

Dillon was not communicative as to why he went away last summer.

CO-OPERATIVE MARKETING.

Producers as a class have made in late years long strides along the line of more intelligent and systematic methods of marketing their stuff. Time was when they were the luckless victims of commission men, too often unscrupulous, who extracted a fat commission and turned over as little as their generosity dictated. But producers grew weary of the holdup game and organized themselves into co-operative associations whose chief object was the securing of a better market. This movement was fought bitterly by those who had waxed fat under the old system of individual buying, but it was of no use. The co-operative movement is here to stay, and its success is assured. First grain producers organized; then followed the organization of growers of oranges, apples, grapes, small fruits and garden truck, and in almost every instance market and price conditions have improved as a result in those sections where such organization has been effected. Not only does such organization make possible the establishment of a standard of excellence in the grade and quality of the produce marketed, especially true in the case of fruits, but it makes possible the hiring of experienced men whose chief business it is to look after and report on market conditions in the various distributing centers. One may give his stuff the most scientific and painstaking care, but if he is held up when it comes to selling it it avails him little, and it would be decidedly to his interest to organize. Producers in any locality who are still marketing individually should look into the possibilities of this co-operative movement, not for the purpose of exacting extortionate prices from the consuming public, but to insure fair returns for themselves, who endure the sweat and bear the brunt of production.

He Didn't Fit

By OSCAR COX

Copyright, 1910, by American Press Association.

Billy Burton was the son of a well-to-do merchant in the east. When a boy Billy showed predilections for a wild life and when he was fifteen ran away from home. He was gone several years before he was heard from and then wrote his father that he was in New Mexico earning a living as a cowboy.

This was something of a relief—both the hearing from him and his assurance that he was at least earning an honest living. His father had dreaded lest he had been hanged and his mother lest he had slept out on damp ground and caught his death of cold. His father secured a correspondent in the region where Billy punched cows and paid a man to go over and see what kind of record the boy had behind him. The reply was favorable, and Billy was invited to come home on a visit. He accepted.

"Oh, Billy," cried his mother, "how could you leave us all this while without a word?"

"Reckon I've got a live wire in me somewhere, mummy."

"Oh, he's all right," said the father. "Time enough yet to polish him up. How old are you, Billy?"

"Twenty."

"But you don't know anything," sighed the mother. "You've not been to school."

"I was all right for schooling when I ran away."

"He's got something better than advanced education—splendid health," said the father.

Mr. Burton tried to induce his son to leave his business and take his place, but Billy said that he would wreck the concern. His father insisted, and his mother begged. So Billy agreed to try. He started in, but he didn't enjoy the work. The walls of the building in which he was to work were too narrow for him.

One day Billy met a man on the street that he had supposed was in jail out in New Mexico. Accosting him, he said:

"Hello, Pete! When did you get out?"

The man looked at Billy sharply. "When did you get out?" he asked.

"Oh, I?" Billy replied, taking notice that the man had mistaken him for one of his prison mates. "I broke jail some time ago."

"Must 'a' brought a lot o' swag with you, seel'n' the fine clothes you got on."

"Fine clothes are lying around loose in this country for those who can keep out of jail."

"Say," said the man in a whisper. "I'm lookin' for a crib to crack. Can you put me on to one dead easy?"

"Sure," replied Billy. "I'm going to try one myself tonight. I'll take you in for half the plunder. I know all about the people. I got a room there myself. What I want is some feller for me to let in and carry off the swag. Are you with me?"

"You bet! I'm awful down at the neck. Haven't had a bite since yester day."

"Very well. You come to No. 368 Center street tonight. Fine house, rich people. You'll find the front door unhooked. Strike it about 1 in the morning. Have a cart two doors away to carry the silver."

And so it was arranged. That night Billy sat up reading till about 12 o'clock, then switched off the electric light and waited. He had left the front door unlatched for Pete and felt no doubt that he would turn up. Sure enough, a few minutes after the clock had struck 1 Billy heard steps below. Going down softly, he heard a movement in the dining room and saw the flash of a dark lantern on the sideboard. Then he saw Pete pull out a drawer where he doubtless expected to find silver.

Billy switched on the light for the whole floor. Pete turned toward him and saw his pal covering him with a revolver.

"What's it mean?" asked Pete, agast.

"It means that I've got you where you once thought you had me. Do you remember the kid you tried to swear away for a horse thief? I'm that boy five years older. I'm glad of a chance to get even. Put your revolver on the table. That's all right. Any more? Got a wagon outside? Glad you brought it. Walk out and we'll take a drive to the police station."

Billy landed his man and went home and to bed.

The next morning he was awakened by a scream below. Running downstairs, he found his mother, who had gone early to wake the servant, looking with horror at Pete's revolver lying on the dining table.

"Oh, my boy," she cried. "The house has been robbed! Look what they left! It's a wonder we haven't all been murdered!"

Billy looked at the revolver he had forgotten to remove the night before and cursed himself for a fool. He knew that his mother would never sleep serenely again if he didn't explain. So he confessed his part in the transaction.

"Oh, Billy!" she cried. "How did you dare expose your poor father and mother to such a danger?"

"Danger! Just think, mummy, how dead easy it was for me to get even with a man who once came near hanging me."

After a conference with his wife Mr. Burton concluded to set his son up as a rancher in New Mexico. Billy wasn't considered quite safe.

RAISING GOOD CALVES.

For the Best Results a Deep, Clean Bed is Necessary.

An authority on dairy matters recently visited a farm where the calves were in very poor condition. They looked as if they had been starved for a month. When feeding time arrived the owner gave them a good, generous feed. He remarked that he did not know why his calves were not thrifty. He was surely giving feed enough, and it was of the right kind.

The pen had not been cleaned nor bedded for some time. It was located in a very inconvenient part of the barn. The other parts of the premises were kept clean and bedded, but that calf pen was always neglected.

The calves would seldom lie down and then only when completely exhausted. They were always restless and uneasy. The owner's attention was called to this. The pen was cleaned and bedded. That afternoon every calf was found lying down and seemed to be perfectly at home.

The next morning the pen was again cleaned and bedded, and this was thereafter made a regular practice. At the end of two weeks there was an entirely different looking bunch of calves in the pen. The tired look was gone.

A good bed, light, cleanliness and fresh air add much to the contentment of live stock. Contentment is just as essential as good feed in the successful care of live stock. Unless contented they will not make the desired gains.

PROFIT IN SPRING PIGS.

By Judicious Management They Can Be Kept Growing Continually.

If a contract were taken to raise a certain number of pounds of pork in a season it would be much wiser to produce it with spring pigs weighing when finished not to exceed 150 pounds than with fall pigs that should be made to weigh 300 to 350 pounds, says a popular breeder. It should be the aim of every farmer to get his spring pigs to the 150 pound mark as soon as possible. The one thing to keep in mind is that the best profit is the continuous growth, and by judicious management this weight may be secured in five or six months.

Full bloods of high grades make the best growth and profit. And it should be borne in mind that it is not feed alone that guarantees success. The man who does not cultivate a love for stock and does not feed and care for them properly cannot expect the highest success. To make sows pay the best dividends they should be watched closely and bred again as soon as possible after farrowing. As a general thing, this is in about two weeks.

It is of the utmost importance to guard against indigestion both in the sows and pigs. This condition is often induced by feeding the animals too much sour swill. To overfeed is as bad as to feed too little. This is especially true after the sow has farrowed.

Meager rations of thin gruel should be the rule for the first few days, to be increased as the pigs and the strength of the dam warrant. This gruel should be made of bran and shorts and fed warm. The sow that comes to the trough hungry and demands more feed is the healthy one. Watch the bowels closely to ascertain the condition of health. They should never be allowed to become constipated, for an animal afflicted thus can not do well.

The pigs need exercise, and if the weather will permit they should be let run outdoors as soon as they have an inclination to go. Sunshine is essential to their health. In case of scours in pigs, mix two pounds of flour with water and give to the sow. If the first feed does not check the malady give two or three times.

How to Wash Butter.

The department of agriculture calls attention to a new method employed in Great Britain of washing butter with separator skim milk twice pasteurized. By this method the bacteria are said to be reduced to one-fifth their original number, and this is a practical way of avoiding the use of impure water if one happens to have it.

What the Cows Drink.

At the Geneva (N. Y.) experiment station it was found that Jersey cows drink the most, 5.25 pounds of water to one pound of milk produced; the Guernseys came next, the Shorthorns, Devons, Holsteins and Ayrshires after them in diminishing order. Milking cows will drink 50 per cent more water than dry ones.

The Abuse of the Currycomb.

Much has been said regarding the use and very little about the abuse of the currycomb. Some horses should never have a currycomb put on them. A fair sized corncomb in some cases will be found vastly superior. In winter horses not at work are in no way benefited by currying.

Keep The Kidneys Well

Health is Worth Saving, and Some Gettysburg People Know How to Save It.

Many Gettysburg people take their lives in their hands by neglecting the kidneys when they know these organs need help. Sick kidneys are responsible for a vast amount of suffering and ill health, but there is no need to suffer nor to remain in danger when all diseases and aches and pains due to weak kidneys can be quickly and permanently cured by the use of Doan's Kidney Pills. Here is a Gettysburg citizen's recommendation.

Mrs. Charles Hartdagen, 47 Breckenridge Street, Gettysburg, Pa., says: "I consider Doan's Kidney Pills an excellent kidney medicine and I am just as willing to recommend them today as I was two years ago. I was troubled by rheumatism and I also had severe pains in my head. When Doan's Kidney Pills were brought to my attention, I procured a supply at the People's Drug Store and commenced their use. I was cured and since then I have often recommended Doan's Kidney Pills to other kidney sufferers. I advise anyone afflicted with kidney complaint to give Doan's Kidney Pills a trial."
